

Gateway to the Best Contest Official Rules, 2017

The Gateway to the Best Contest (Gateway Contest) is an all-electronic contest. Entries will only be accepted via the Missouri Romance Writers of America (MORWA) Gateway Contest website entry form. The Gateway Contest website entry form will not be accepted via postal service or email. Score sheets and comments will be returned via e-mail. All correspondence will be via e-mail (unless otherwise noted).

The first 150 entries are guaranteed entrance into the Gateway Contest. Judge availability and coordinator sanity will be used to determine whether any additional entries will be accepted, even if those entries are received prior to the day and time the Gateway Contest is scheduled to close.

SCORE SHEET:

A sample first-round score sheet is provided at for your consideration on the Gateway Contest's website pages.

ELIGIBILITY:

Only authors and entries meeting ALL of the following requirements may enter the Gateway Contest:

Author Eligibility:

- (a) All authors of the entry are unpublished and not contracted in novel-length fiction (over 40,000 words) within the last 3 years from July 30, 2017;
- (b) Self-published authors are eligible to enter the Gateway Contest with any unpublished work (see below); and
- (c) All authors of the entry agree to all parts of the release of liability. Acknowledgement of the release of liability constitutes the entrant's electronic mark of agreement to the release.

Entry Eligibility:

- (a) The entry, whether revised in whole or in part, has not previously won the Grand Prize or First Place in any category of the Gateway Contest;
- (b) The entry is only entered once in the Gateway Contest. No alternate versions of the same manuscript may be entered in the same or different categories;
- (c) Any work available for purchase online or in print at any time is published and is ineligible, even if revised in whole or in part and even if removed from POD or online purchase prior to the last 3 years;
- (d) The entry complies with the submission format described below;

Important Note: An entrant may enter any number of different qualifying entries in any number of categories but may not be named a finalist with more than two entries in any one category to avoid a circumstance where one entrant wins all three awards in the same category.

CATEGORY DESCRIPTIONS:

While not all entries will fit neatly into only one of the following categories, the descriptions of each category should be followed when deciding into which category to enter a manuscript.

Contemporary Single Title / Contemporary Series Romance/Romantic suspense. A novel set between 1950 and the present that primarily focuses on a romantic relationship overcoming conflicts to reach a satisfying romantic conclusion. A contemporary single title romance generally exceeds 70,000 words and is targeted for release as a stand-alone novel. A contemporary series romance generally has between 40,000 and 70,000 words and meets the requirements of existing publisher series, like the many Harlequin series lines. For Suspense must be a novel in which mystery, suspense, thriller, or action and adventure elements create or contribute to the main conflicts to be overcome in the satisfying resolution of the romance.

Historical Romance. A novel set in any time period prior to 1950 wherein the historically appropriate conflicts result in a satisfying resolution of the romance. Historical romances may use real historic locations or completely imaginary historic locations (for example, a fictional island kingdom off England's coast), but they use minimal (if any) magical, paranormal, fantastic, or fictional scientific elements. For example, a ghost story set in an otherwise historically and scientifically accurate Victorian England would be classified as an historical romance but a steampunk romance would not.

Paranormal, Futuristic, and Fantasy Romance. A novel (taking place in an alternate reality present or past, fantasy, or futuristic setting) in which magical, paranormal, fantastical, or science fiction elements (such as preternatural characters, imaginary creatures, magic powers, and fictional technology) create or contribute to the main conflicts to be overcome in the satisfying resolution of the romance.

Women's Fiction with strong romantic elements. A novel (in any tone, style, or time period) told mostly, if not completely, from a female's point of view in which a woman's journey to understand her life or rediscover herself is the primary plot but where overcoming or dealing with a romantic conflict is integral to the story's satisfying resolution.

Young Adult Romance / New Adult Romance. A young adult novel has at least one main romantic character under the age of 18 and includes conflicts common in young adult life that must be overcome before the story can reach a satisfying romantic conclusion. A new adult romance has at least one main romantic character of traditional college age or just graduated from college age, usually between 18 and 25 years old, and includes conflicts common to the lives of new adults that must be overcome before the story can reach a satisfying romantic conclusion.

Important Note: If insufficient entries are received in any category, entries will be placed in the second choice category chosen on the entry form.

- (b) Every effort is made to ensure that only non-MORWA judges will judge entries by MORWA members.
- (c) Judges are not assigned to judge categories they have not said they are qualified and interested in judging.
- (d) Judges are not allowed to judge entries from any category they entered in the Gateway.

First-Round Scoring:

- (a) Three (3) judges will score each entry, with the lowest score dropped from the final tabulations to determine category finalists.
- (b) The dropped score may be used as a tie-breaker. (Not all of our final judges have agreed to judge more than the top three entries.)

Grand Prize Scoring:

- (a) The Grand Prize will be awarded to the entry that earns the highest mathematical score of all three (3) scores in the first round of judging;
- (b) In the event of a tie, the Grand Prize will be awarded to the entry with the highest score in Opening/Hook. If there is still a tie, the Grand Prize will be awarded to the entry with the highest score in the following elements (in order listed below until there is no tie): Opening/Hook, Characters, Conflict, Dialogue, Plotting, Writing, Voice, Pacing, Description, and Mechanics;
- (c) Should there still be a tie, published authors on MORWA's present or past Board of Directors will judge the tied entries to break the tie, in the discretion of the Gateway Coordinator.

- Young Adult or New Adult—Kinan Werdski- Editor - Wild Rose Press

Final Judges Scoring:

- (a) The final judges are asked to rank order the entries they receive based on how ready the entry is for submission to an industry professional.
- (b) Although they are also asked to provide some feedback to the entrant on which manuscript elements that worked well and which could be improved, not all final judges choose to do so.
- (c) The final judges this year are all editors at publishing houses who are willing to volunteer their time to judge our contest. In the rare circumstance where a final judge has to cancel after the contest closes, the contest coordinator would try to locate a replacement final judge from the same or similar publishing house. However, judge availability is limited, and there is no guarantee.
